

Intersec joins CFCA – Communication Fraud Control Association

November, 18th 2015 – Paris, France Intersec (www.intersec.com), leading editor of real-time streaming analytics software, announced today that it has joined the Communication Fraud Control Association (CFCA), completing a high profile list of major organizations.

Intersec will share unique insights with CFCA members thanks to its 10 years of experience in Big Data on the Telco market. Intersec's disruptive technology enables to collect in real-time tremendous amounts of data available on MNOs' networks including location information on a mass-market scale. Intersec's self-learning algorithms enables operators to identify ever-changing fraud mechanisms in minutes.

The CFCA is the Premier International Association for Revenue assurance, loss, prevention and Fraud control through educational events and information-sharing sessions. Mobile Network Operators, Internet services providers, cable and satellite providers and fraud prevention solution suppliers are represented, and share experience and best practices to best address the Fraud mitigation and prevention problematics.

Intersec is proud to join CFCA, and to contribute to the commitment to even better revenue assurance, loss prevention and fraud control.

Laurent Michel, Intersec CMO states: "CFCA is a great opportunity for the Telecommunications industry to join forces to best protect against emerging and impacting Fraud threats. Above B35$ are still stolen by fraudulent organizations on a yearly basis. Joining CFCA allows us to strengthen our commitment to support the operators to reach their objectives in Fraud mitigation. This is not only about providing advanced technology, it is also about sharing experiences and partnering with complementary players to provide the best answer that the fraudsters deserve."

Roberta Aronoff, CFCA Executive Director states: "The CFCA Board of Directors is pleased to announce that Intersec has recently become a member of the CFCA and we look forward to their participation in our events, webinars and efforts to combat fraud worldwide."
